- first word of each part of the application should specify the corresponding part (p.16 of ST.22);

- Landscape pages should be turned 90 degrees counterclockwise for integration within the set of portrait pages (p.21 of ST.22);

- to avoid the use of footnotes, margin texts and headers (p.22 of ST.22);

- to separate the text area from the tables, formulae and images by blank margins (p.23 of ST.22);

- paragraphs should be separated by spacing that is at least twice as big as the intra-paragraph line spacing (p.28 of ST.22);

- all characters within a paragraph line should have their baselines carefully aligned…(p.29 of ST.22);

- justified text paragraphs should be avoided. (p.30 of ST.22);

- to avoid word splitting by the use of hyphens (p.31 of ST.22);

- for the tables - (p.32-33 of ST.22);

- for font details - (p.35-39 of ST.22);

- to avoid the text underlining (p.41 of ST.22).

Besides, Rospatent does not publish these Requirements in its Bulletin (only – in the text of Rules on its website). And there are no any examples of good and bad practice (p.50 of ST.22).
